Living organisms protect itself in competition of life in many ways. Thus from the very beginning of their existence, man has familiarized with plants and other animals for their curiosity. As example has opted a variety of ways throughout ages in search of food and to cope successfully with human sufferings. Historical references show that even 5000 years ago the people in China, India were well aware of a large number of drugs. The Susruta Sahita and Caraka Sahita is great encyclopedia. There are still lot of areas of life science that are undiscovered. Moreover to know, how to make effort to continue basic research and make it as applied.

provide a platform so as to encourage knowledge sharing in the field of Fundamental and applied research. It is a peer reviewed online quarterly journal.

IJFAS emerged with a view to sustain and support the horizon of knowledge from all areas of basic, pharmaceutical and other allied sciences.
